Visiting Professor Program Academic year 2022/2023

TEACHING COMMITMENT: 16 hours

COURSE TITLE

Entrepreneurship: Theory and History

TEACHING PERIOD

2nd term

SCIENTIFIC AREA

History of Economic Thought

LANGUAGE USED TO TEACH

English

COURSE SUMMARY

Part I (general part): history of economic theory of the firm from marginalism (Marshall) to financial capitalism. In this part we'll be paying attention to some aspects of economic history, even though the focus will stay on theoretical aspects of the subject. A specific part will be dealing with entrepreneurship with the Austrian school of economics: from Schumpeter to Kirzner.

Part II: gender gap in economics and entrepreneurship. When possible, some case studies will be presented during the last part of the course. They include entrepreneurs who will be lecturing during classes about their experience, either in person or online (depending on the general situation), and will be available for Q&A.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Students are required to be able to achieve the capacity to consider the nature of the firm as an economic agent within a general theoretical and historical acknowledgment of the present economic system which is constantly changing.
